BOYNE CITY FRIDAY

Vikings To Open Conference Game Play This Week Away

ROSCOMMON VIKINGS	63
GRAYLING JV	46
ROSCOMMON JV	48

The conference frays of the Northern Class A Conference will get underway in earnest this Friday night with all eight teams (Boysen, Cheboygan, Harbor Springs, Grayling, East Jordan, Pellston, Charlevoix, and Manistowick) competing at Manistowick.

Grayling was to meet their regular season underdog on Tuesday of this week, but a non-stop battle with the Roscommon Vikings, the Grayling Blue Devils were also to go on Tuesday night at Cheboygan. Traveling City St. Francis was to invade East Jordan for their annual basketball and basketball meet to be held on Friday night at the Manistowick.

Boysen City and Harbor Springs opened their seasons earlier with Boysen City visiting the pair of the Petoskey Northern last Friday night, November 26. Likewise the Harbor Springs Rams opened last Friday night entertaining Petoskey St. Francis.

Boysen City is not expected to give Vikings coach Franklin Smith too much of a challenge as they are short of experienced court men and also just short. The Vikings will have a definite advantage not only in height but in more seasoned veterans.

Veteran Loop observers see the strength of the conference this year in East Jordan and Pellston with Grayling and Harbor Springs providing plenty of pressure on the leaders. Manistowick, Boysen City and Charlevoix, as the season gets underway, do not seem to have the "horses" this year. However, as the cage frays continue through the winter months

Mens Cancer Detection Program Two Cancers Found

This program included a chest X-ray, blood smear for leukemia and a physical exam for the seven cancer sites by the personal physician. This program has an effort to stress the importance of visits to the doctor. The individuals still felt themselves to be in good health. 79% of the men contacted had a Cancer Detection Exam. A spot check of 60 examinations revealed the following conditions that were previously unknown or untreated: 1. High blood pressure, 2. High blood pressure, 3. High blood pressure, 4. High blood pressure, 5. High blood pressure, 6. High blood pressure, 7. High blood pressure, 8. High blood pressure, 9. High blood pressure, 10. High blood pressure.

Two Blazes Cause Damage Last Week

The Grayling Fire Department was called out at 10:40 p.m. Wednesday, November 24th, to Grayling Bay Station at the corner of Cedar and Ottawa streets. A passersby had reported smoke coming from the garage end of the building. The station had been closed for about an hour and a half. The fire was of unknown origin. The department was called to the scene for just about an hour, according to Acting Chief Kip Payton. Station owner John Galloway stated there was flame, smoke and water damage to both the building interior and most of the tools.

A fire of unknown origin broke out near the end where the paint department of the Grayling Bay Company is housed Tuesday night, November 23rd, around 10 o'clock. According to the stopped clock in the building, the blaze ruined two exhaust fans in the paint section and burned red heads on the conveyor, but after consuming these apparently ran out of inflammatory material and went out. The fact that the building is cement block, with a steel roof no doubt also contributed. The fire damage was not discovered until the following morning when employees arrived for work, at which time the Fire Department was called and a report of the damage turned in.

Petition Seeks Doe Kill Halt In County

The Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce has instituted a petition being circulated in the Grayling area asking that the Department of Conservation stop the killing of does during rifle deer season next year in Crawford County.

The Chamber Board acted on this matter after many businessmen, hunters, and residents of the area stated that they had observed a notable decrease in the deer herd in Crawford County. While the Chamber does not believe in the action of petitions and pressure groups, it does think that action should be taken to preserve the deer herd in areas such as ours when it appears the saturation point of hunters and deer has been reached.

High Wind Causes Some Damage Locally

The storm which blew in Friday afternoon and raged all Saturday removed a large part of the Tufts Distributing Company warehouse roof Saturday morning about 6:30. Debris from this blew across the street and hit a part-time employee at the Great Northern Texaco station, Danny Ingalls. Also hit a United Parcel Service truck parked there, and the auto of Paul Carroll of Detroit, who had stopped there. Danny Ingalls was taken to Mercy Hospital for a checkup and released a short time later. Some three truckloads of debris had to be hauled away from the Great Northern.

Linda Christian, 1st Runner Up; 300 Attend Polyhedron Ball Saturday

Grayling's First Annual "Miss Grayling Pageant" sponsored by the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce was presented by the Queens Committee before an audience of 300 people on Saturday evening in the Gymnasium of the Grayling High School. A variety of entertainment, which included dancing and the presentation of the Miss Grayling Pageant by the seven contestants, made the evening a very enjoyable one despite the snowy and cold weather outside. A wonderful addition were refreshments served by the Senior Class.

Mr. Harry E. Travis serving as Master of Ceremonies offered the audience a very interesting and stimulating description of all happenings of the day and evening. The Contours of Saginaw offered up background music and amid a beautiful backdrop of blue, black and white offering the Polyhedron theme and a gold throne chair, the judges panel made their decision based upon the following categories: informal interviewing, bathing suit competition, evening gown competition, and talent presentation.

The judges choice of three finalists in alphabetical order were: Linda Maureen Christian, Linda J. Knibbs, and Paulette "Faye" Roberson. They were each asked to select a question enclosed in a sealed envelope. Mr. Travis read the question, and asked for a complete answer. The girls did very well, but as all pageants go, there must be winners and losers. Upon the basis of the answers to the

BLACK WIDOWS Dave Olson County Extension Natural Resource Agent

Large numbers of Black Widow spiders have been found in forest plantations in Grand Traverse, Kalamazoo, Wexford, Crawford and Oshtemo counties by Louis Wilson, forest entomologist for the U. S. Forest Service, according to Dave Olson, County Natural Resource Agent.

Black Widows are not aggressive and will only bite when forced on the defensive. These bugs can not penetrate most clothing. The female spider is the only one known to bite.

Anyone picking up old fence posts or lumber or handling pruned pine trees should wear gloves. People harvesting Christmas trees should be alert for spiders.

The bite of a Black Widow is generally fatal since only a small amount of venom is injected. Pain from a bite would be like a needle prick. Shortly after the bite, pain becomes intense near the wound reaching a maximum in a half hour.

If you are bitten by a Black Widow, contact a doctor as soon as possible.

The adult females are dark brown to black and have an abdomen with two red triangles on the underside, and usually red marks on their backs.

Younger spiders are colored with red, yellow or white spots or bands. The Black Widow is not looking for people to bite, but it is advisable to use caution in areas where the spider might be found.

Home Ownership At Peak In Crawford County

NEW YORK — In Crawford County, home ownership has been on the rise, and is now at a comparatively high level.

A greater proportion of local families than ever before own the houses in which they live. The proportion is higher by about 8.7 per cent than it was in 1950.

The findings are based on an updating of the latest Department of Commerce figures, in line with more recent surveys made by the University of Michigan and others.

As an indication of the change that has been taking place, back

In 1950 the official Census of Housing showed that 7.9 per cent of the local dwelling units were owner-occupied.

By 1960, the ratio had reached 8.7 per cent. Now, in 1965, it is at an estimated 64.6 per cent.

The figures for Crawford County compare favorably with those for the United States as a whole, where the home ownership ratio is 64.1 per cent. It is 77.8 per cent in Michigan.

Much of the progress in this direction, locally and nationally, has taken place in the last ten years, aided by rising prosperity and by Government insurance of mortgages.

With incomes on the increase, more and more families have been achieving an economic position that has enabled them to acquire homes of their own.

Their way was eased, considerably, by the availability of mortgage money at more favorable rates than were offered in earlier years.

As a result, the proportion of homes with mortgages on them rose from 44 per cent in 1950 to 57 per cent by 1960.

Although there has been much trading-up in recent years—people selling their homes to buy larger and fancier ones—there has also been much money spent on remodeling, expanding and repairing the older dwellings.

Upwards of $11 billion per year is now being spent for such purposes, according to the University of Michigan survey.

Each year, it finds, four out of ten families make such outlays, averaging $250. It amounts to $220 per dwelling per year when the cost is spread out on an annual basis.

Applying this average expenditure to Crawford County and to the number of dwelling units locally, approximately $316,000 is spent a year on such renovating.

Milliken Vetos Look Like Power Play By Governor George Romney

Three vetoes made public by Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken while Gov. George Romney was on his Tokyo-Viet Nam tour in October appear as a kind of power play by the chief executive.

Previous vetoes from Romney indicate he has gained political skill during his years in the governor's chair. He used the veto power consistently to kill several strictly Democratic Party measures and he was effective a couple of times in just using it as a threat to get changes in measures before they reached him.

The three which provoked majority Democrats to attempt an override in December were the last of several in which he used the veto to display his disgust with the lack of fiscal reform action.

In question on these three measures were funds to help senior citizens who rent homes, disabled veterans, and seven state colleges. An estimated $10 million a year was involved in the first two bills, while the third was a one-shot reimbursement of $1.2 million promised to schools which enrolled more students than expected.

Democratic legislative leaders gave Romney the run-around most of the summer on whether they might agree to even give a full hearing to any proposed fiscal reform, his or one they might put together.

Many veteran observers in both political camps predicted from the start that the majority chiefs were just being polite to listen to the governor's pleas at all. The leadership didn't want to get involved in such a basic issue this year, they said.

Michigan's surplus funds which will still provide a cushion in the next fiscal year will again discourage any change in the tax pattern which might cost votes at the polls next fall.

The vetoes put the spotlight on Milliken, the state GOP's rising star. Romney made it clear he was in agreement with all action to be announced during his absence.

The three vetoes were his own language, used often: Although the surplus was now $126 million, this would be gone within two years and to spend more without adding revenue would be "unconscionable."

Many said the political dangers of the first two vetoes were great. In the end, however, Romney likely will wind up looking like the great protector of public funds even to the renting senior citizens and disabled veterans who will get no change in tax status.

KNOW MEDICARE

An important message is going out to Michigan's senior citizens which apparently cannot be repeated and emphasized strongly enough.

This is the word from both federal and state authorities to keep present hospital or medical insurance plans in effect for the time being.

State Insurance Commissioner Allen Mayerson reminds persons over 65 that the federal Medicare program enacted this year to dovetail with the Social Security plan will not be effective until next July 1.

Even closer to the July effective date, personal study is encouraged of the new federal plan versus present individual or group insurance programs.

Some doctors and any insurance man whose firm sells hospital-medical policies are very willing to advise whether the Medicare

State Mental Health Department last year employed about 11,000 people.

Operating with one director and six assistants for various divisions, the department is concerned with services for the mentally retarded, mentally ill, community facilities, planning and research, and of course, its own internal administration.

Too picture of this department is still not quite in focus until you see the numbers and kinds of services provided in the state by its units.

As of a fall rundown, the department's jurisdiction covered 83 separate agencies. Child guidance clinics numbering 21 was the largest group.

State hospitals, 17 in all, were next. These provide services for the mentally ill, criminal insane, mentally retarded and epileptic.

The full range of mental and psychiatric problems are attemped to be served in the various other units.

No Alibi For Lawlessness...

All manner of excuses are given for the waves of juvenile delinquency that continually poison this country. It is said that some way, some how, society has failed these errant young people and so society must take the bulk of the blame. How about parents?

A man who is a real authority on crime and its causes—Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI—holds a very different view. In his words, "Teen-agers and their parents have been subjected to a foolhardy theory which condones rebellious conduct against authority, law and order, or any regulatory measures which restrict their whims, wishes, desires, and activities. This astonishing belief has spread into the schoolroom, the courtroom and now into the streets of our nation in the form of wild, drunken brawls."

"No doubt society has failed our youth, but not in the way many seem to think. Rather, the dereliction has been in the failure to teach them the meaning of discipline, restraint, self-respect, and respect for law and order and the rights of others. Consequently, the lesson now is both painful and costly."

The surest way to turn the juvenile delinquent of today into the hardened adult criminal of tomorrow is to pamper him. The foremost right and duty of society is to enforce the law under representative government.

If children were taught in the home by their parents and in the schools and Sunday schools by their teachers, one simple little rule of action, think of the sorrow and suffering it would save, not to mention the countless millions of dollars.

This rule of action wouldn't require any new laws, it wouldn't cost a dime of taxpayers money, and it would reduce the cost of law enforcement and court trials. Respect for the rule would eventually become automatic with most children as they grew up.

There wouldn't be so many news reports of murder, robbery, kidnapping, rape, purse snatching, automobile stealing, etc., etc.

And what is the rule of action that would reduce our vicious crime record, if it became part of the thinking of children when it was taught to them daily by their parents and schools, along with suitable illustrations of what it meant?

Rule — "Keep your hands off other people and other people's property." It's that simple to keep out of trouble.

The fire that started at 11:30 on Sunday night and raged for five hours destroyed the interior and damaged a quantity of stock at the A & P store caused losses estimated at $5,000. The 500 pounds of coffee that had been placed on the shelves for Monday's sale the first day after the freezing order was lifted, were all completely destroyed, while the heavy coffee grinder was smashed beyond repairs when the weakened floor of the store gave way and dropped into the basement. The entire stock of groceries and canned goods is reported a total loss. The Rexall store was only damaged slightly by smoke. Fortunately a fire wall between the burning A & P building and drug store prevented the flames from spreading. The fire was not completely extinguished until 4 a. m. Monday morning and dense smoke caused from burning coal stored in the basement hindered efforts of the local firemen who were struggling to get the blaze under control. The flames ate into the beam supports, weakening the main floor to such an extent that it sagged badly, making the work of the firemen hazardous as well as difficult. It is believed that the blaze was started from an automatic heat control which failed to properly function, allowing the furnace pipes to become overheated. While the firemen were trying to extinguish the fire several auto drivers were given tickets for driving across the water host. Also, one of the hoses sprung a leak, slowing down the work of the men for a few moments. The local manager, Earl Dawson, promises to have the store repaired and open again before Christmas.

R. L. D. S. Activities

We are pleased to tell you that one of our number, Mrs. Antoinette Nielsen, is employed in the new Automated Record Department of Grace Hospital in Detroit. She is one of two women hired by the hospital from the Automation Institute of Detroit. Mrs. Nielsen was trained in key punching and verification and graduated with highest grades of her class. Here pictured, Mrs. Nielsen operates the Card Sort-er. The machine actually sorts out various charges made to the patients' record. It even separates those charges that can not be posted to the bill because certain information is still missing. Mrs.
Nielsen "Made the Grade" so to speak after certain government agencies told her that she was not qualified for this work. Her persistence and success in her chosen field is another example of American initiative.

Crawford County Chamber of Commerce

Memo: To the People of Crawford County
From: J. L. Truetter, President
Subject: The Polyhedron Ball

Did you attend the Polyhedron Ball Saturday night? We hope so.
It was sponsored by the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce and was under the direction of the Jean's Committee with Mrs. Donald Koch acting as chairman.
They did an excellent job. This is the first time that Grayling has been affiliated with the Miss America contest and everything was done according to their rules. It was also a new experience for our girls inasmuch as they had to display some kind of talent, which they did exceptionally well. The Chamber is proud to be a part of this, proud of the queen's committee and very proud of the girls who participated.

CHRISTMAS TREES

By David D. Olson
County Natural Resource Agent

Michigan is the leading producer of Christmas trees in the United States according to Dave Olson, County Natural Resource Agent. The state production accounts for 10 per cent of total national production.

Production in 1962 was 5.2 million trees. Approximately 2 million trees were sold within the state and the remainder was shipped to many different states.

Michigan trees are rapidly moving into the national market. According to the recent "Project 80" study carried out by Michigan State University staff members, the state total of national production will increase to 12% by 1980.

This estimate projects a Michigan production of 6.2 million trees by 1980.

Most of the trees harvested for Christmas trees are Scotch pine grown in plantations. Other species commonly found in the market place are white spruce, Norway spruce, red pine, balsam and Douglas fir.

If market demands are to be met in the future, more must be an increase in Christmas tree plantations in the next few years. The sandy soils of this area of the state are ideal for producing Christmas trees.

Anyone considering establishing a plantation should seek sound advice before making any initial errors. Species selection must be correlated to soil types. The trees must be properly planted, sheared, and sprayed in order to meet market standards.

The Christmas tree industry contributes over 11 1/2 million dollars annually to the state economy. Northern Michigan retains a large share of this money as stumpage for trees.

Contact your local Cooperative Extension Service Office for information and bulletins on Christmas tree production.

Loggers Workshop To Start December 6

"Another Loggers Workshop" is to start at Gaylord on Monday, December 6, states Dave Olson, Osceola County Agent. "This is a real opportunity for men who want to get into the logging business as well as for men now logging who want to look at new ideas and the latest equipment."

Details of the Workshop are listed by Agent Olson, as follows: "The Workshop will run just four weeks. Men who sign up will receive about $600 per week for living allowances and subsistence. Living fees are paid from funds under the Area (Re)development Act. There will be time spent on log grading methods, cruising and scaling, good land management, using aerial photos, timber buying and selling, safety, new equipment, and surveying as well as safety and insurance."

"Most of the Workshop 'takes place in the woods and in the shop' Olson went in to explain. "There is very little written work and no tests. The emphasis is on helping people improve skills or get new and useful information and new ideas. We have seen some big changes in logging coming. This is lots more changes coming. This Workshop is set up to bring new people into an industry where jobs are plentiful. There is a great need for more pulpwood and great men to do the cutting. The Workshop will also do a lot to help the men who are already logging. It shows them the newest ideas and the latest equipment as well as ways to produce wood easier with more profit."

According to Agent Olson, only more men are needed to fill the quota for the December 6th Workshop. "Anyone interested should report as soon as possible to their nearest office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission for sign-up. Local Office Managers will have complete details."

Local Coinage Change To Benefit Uncle Sam

NEW YORK — Uncle Sam will soon wave his magic wand in Crawford County and presto, he will be richer by some $46,620. He will do so by removing the silver coins—dimes, quarters and half-dollars—that are now in circulation locally.

In exchange for them, he will supply local residents with coins of a new type, made of cheaper metals.

The dimes and quarters that will be substituted will have no silver in them. Instead of the 90 per cent of silver that the present coins contain, the new ones will be made of an alloy of nickel and copper.

As for the half-dollars, they will contain 40 per cent of silver instead of 90 per cent. No changes are being made at this time in coins of other denominations.

The cutdown in the use of silver was authorized by Congress at the request of the Treasury Department.

Production of the new coins is already under way. They will begin to appear sometime before the Christmas season.

For every man, woman and child in Crawford County, it is estimated that there are 37 dimes, 20 quarters and 6 half-dollars in normal circulation. They have a face value of $11.70.

According to figures supplied by the U. S. Mint, the $3.70 in dimes contain metal worth $3.46, the $5 in quarters, $4.68, and the $3 in half-dollars, $2.81. The metal is worth $5.95.

By cutting down on the use of silver, the Government will be able to save a huge amount of money. Instead of this quantity of coins costing $10.95, they will cost only $1.81 in the future.

As a result, the stock of coins in Crawford County, which have a metallic value of $55,850, will be replaced by new coins with an intrinsic value of only $9,230.

The $46,620 profit derived from this exchange, termed "seigniorage," goes to the Government.

Nationally, it is estimated, such profits could amount to nearly $500 million in the first year alone.

Republicans and Democrats are split as to where this money should go. The Administration wants to apply it toward current expenses. The Republicans prefer to have it earmarked for specific purposes, such as debt reduction or drought control.

A special "thank you" to this fine, cooperative newspaper for their excellent coverage of our Pageant. Watch this newspaper for the announcement and coverage of the 1966 Miss Michigan Winter Sports Pageant to be held on Saturday, February 12, 1966. This Pageant will be chartered to the Miss Michigan Pageant Queen. Faye will be Grayling's representative, so let's all give her our support.

Woman's Club

The Grayling Woman's Club wishes to thank all of the people who attended their Christmas Bazaar November 19 at the Reave Sewing Center. At the drawing Mrs. Charles Staley received the gold hand-made Afghan, Mrs. Robert Robin the tote-bag, and Mrs. Harold Drake the floral arrangement.

Toys for Christmas, the joint Kiwanis and Woman's Club project, needs toys. Good used toys are to be left at the high school shop room where they will be looked over and repaired. This is a good project for children to clean out those outgrown toys.

The Saginaw Veterans Hospital can use toilet articles, stamps and stationery, and the club is including them in their Christmas plans. Arrangements are under way for the annual Golden Age party for those 70 years of age or older. The party will be on December 15th.
